

Did you know that a search for "fire safety" in the Agricultural & Environmental Science Collection database yields more than 19,000 results? One of the most recent results is an article published in the Journal of Fire Protection about the use of flame-retardant paper packaging materials in archives (such as our Nabb Center). Check out this and other databases available in our A-to-Z Database list.

